

Induction Service Held for IGNOU Regional Centre Aizawl Students

AIZAWL, MAY 22, 2026: An induction service to welcome newly enrolled students across various IGNOU (Indira Gandhi National Open University) Study Centres of Aizawl was held today, Friday afternoon at 11:00 AM, at the Golden Hall of Government Hrangbana College.

The event was presided over by Mr. Laldampaia, Coordinator of the IGNOU Government Hrangbana College Study Centre, who delivered the welcome address. Dr. S.R. Zonunthara, Senior Regional Director, formally welcomed the fresh batch of students in January session and gave a detailed overview of IGNOU's academic system, methodology, and administrative structure.

He highlighted that the IGNOU Regional Centre (RC) in Aizawl, established in December 2000, exercises jurisdiction over the entire state of Mizoram. At present, the RC Aizawl delivers its services through eight Regular Study Centres, four Programme Study Centres, and five Special Study Centres, effectively covering all districts within Mizoram.

While explaining the university's academic framework, the Senior Regional Director noted that students can easily access and benefit from various online classes conducted across India. He emphasized that because distance education does not follow a rigid, traditional daily classroom schedule, the students themselves must take primary responsibility for their own learning. He further encouraged them to become adept at utilizing modern educational technology to succeed in their studies.

Pu Vanlalruata Sailo, Assistant at the Regional Centre Aizawl, also spoke at the event to clarify key operational details that students need to know. He walked the attendees through the admission process, examination procedures, assignment submissions, and other crucial academic requirements. He pointed out that since IGNOU operates largely online, a high degree of self-management is required. However, he reassured students that if they face any difficulties, they can always reach out to the Regional Office or their respective Study Centres for assistance. He also mentioned that the university conducts examinations twice a year—in June and December—and that all standard study materials are prepared and provided directly by the university.

The induction service concluded with an interactive Question and answer, and discussion session, where new students raised questions and sought clarifications on various aspects of their courses. The program drew to a close with a vote of thanks delivered by Prof. Lalsangzuala Khiangte, Coordinator of the IGNOU Study Centre at Government Aizawl College. The event was attended by the Coordinators of various Study Centres within the city of Aizawl, alongside other staff members and a significant number of students.
